A TALE OF TWO MARCHES: PRO-LIFE & PRO-ABORTION

After three years, the so-called “Women’s March” appears to be losing steam, while the March for Life continues to hold strong.

For decades, the National March for Life has brought Americans to Washington, DC in protest of abortion. Year after year, pro-life Americans continue to prove their concern for preborn neighbors by making the trip.

Created Equal attends the March for Life with JumboTron TV screens to visually represent abortion victims at their march.

For the past three years, we have also stayed in DC after the March for Life to protest the pro-abortion “Women’s March.” The first year, we were surrounded by a sea of hundreds of thousands of pro-abortion people. The second year, the march had shrunk considerably. And this year, even fewer returned to protest President Trump and champion abortion.

Those who were present still slandered and tried to censor our team, holding their handmade signs out to try to cover our large pictures of aborted babies. One man who boasted he has a PhD called our team “stupid” and “brainwashed” before suggesting they should have been aborted.  ABORTION VICTIMS

Explaining pain after abortion, Andrea echoed Dr. King, who said injustice is like a boil which must be exposed to be cured. She said, "It's like a wound that festers if left alone. It needs to be lanced, opened up so that it can be healed."

We're hiring! Do you know someone who might want to spend the summer working full-time to rescue babies? Email lan@CreatedEqual.org for details!

VICTIM PHOTOS BRING HEALING TO MOM AFTER ABORTION

"When you said you were going to show the video of aborted babies, I was surprised," Andrea told us after one of our recent keynote speeches at an annual pro-life banquet. "But I felt I needed to look—to know once and for all what I did and so I could finally release it to God, to see the results of what I did."

We're often told showing abortion will only hurt those who've had abortions. But how did seeing the babies affect Andrea, who had been in need of healing for 30 years?

She said, "So I did watch. It was the hardest thing I've ever done, but after the video, I finally felt God's forgiveness deep into my toes—for the first time in my life." Thank you for helping us reach Andrea with the truth of forgiveness through Jesus!
